

CDGCBR study Group

A new CDGCBR Study Group is to be formed. It is open to all Guild members and you are welcome to attend all or any sessions of interest to you at no charge. The sessions will be run via Zoom meetings and where appropriate Ringing Room (RR) practices may run alongside.

The Study Group will aim to progress your ringing ability and enjoyment.

Meetings will take various forms -

- presentations by speakers on bellringing related subjects
- shared pre-recorded online resources — watched in advance and discussed at the session (similar to a book club - but with bells)
- discussion about specific ringing methods and tips for learning them

We welcome suggestions - so if you have a good idea for a meeting please share it with us.

All abilities are welcome. If you are new to ringing online we will help you to master it. Any individuals or tower groups who would like help getting to grips with Ringing Room and/or Zoom technology, please contact us via edwinmatthews@hotmail.com

To get the group underway we have a programme of monthly talks by Julia Cater:

Study Group Programme

First Sunday in month (except April) - 3.30pm start

Sunday 7 February - Calling Bob Doubles for the first time
Associated RR session focuses on Bob Doubles

Sunday 7 March - Moving from calling Bob Doubles to calling Bob Minor
Associated RR session focuses on Bob Minor

Sunday 11 April - Introduction to Stedman
Associated RR session focuses on Stedman

Sunday 2 May- How to ring 'Big Bells'
Associated RR session to be decided

Any enquiries or to join in please email Ed Matthews at edwinmatthews@hotmail.com

Please include the following information if you want to join in the RR sessions:

- What have you successfully rung in Ringing Room, if you have tried it?
- Have you the skills and technology to be able to call methods in Ringing Room?

Knowing this will help us to put you where best will suit your own needs for progression

Please let your fellow ringers know
